

The BOG: Bay Of Gratitude

The BOG are giant interactive globes, suspended from a frame, inspired by pathways on computer boards, and installed throughout Arena Green. Millions of recycled memory modules are collaged into the orbs creating a reliquary of memories, innovation, and collective growth. Storytelling stations will record participant's experiences, which are translated into binary code and projected onto the globe's interior surface, telling stories like ticker tape throughout the park. The solar-powered lights generate an ecologically-friendly ambiance that protects wildlife. The BOG is a monument to the historic core of Silicon Valley, a collaboration of the people, and a record for the future of the soul of San Jose.
