

This monumental artwork twisting skyward is made of an omni-triangulated basket-weave, forming the structural steel truss of The Helix.

Attached to this truss is interactive lighting, shining on an iconic mural of marine-grade stainless steel covering the entire surface. The subject of this mural will visually capture a story to be written in the next phase. Trams riding up the double-helix track will travel to the observation deck, yielding immense panoramic views through glass.

The Parkscape is a supporting element to the artwork, spanning the river with a raised park culminating in a multi-purpose building.
