

The Tower of Gaia.

Towers have too often become symbols of ego, Gaia reveals a new kind of icon expressing the fragile balance and interconnected nature of our world. This project is a homage to the Eiffel Tower, but with a Silicon Valley Twist: A digitally generated timber tower swirling into the sky, celebrating the environmental technology of our age. The Tower of Gaia will have a self-sufficient restaurant providing a panoramic view of the Silicon Valley, serving organic food that grows within the structure itself. This rich flora will form an educational journey open to everyone.
