

Lightscape is an interactive artwork, created out of the sky and the natural systems that surround it. Unlike traditional art and architecture, this work will grow, live and change continuously. As society moves into the future, we want destinations that we can interact and engage with. This mirrored sculpture is designed as a light sculpture for all times of day. From dawn until dusk, Lightscape is gently in motion, using both natural and artificial light. Lightscape will align with the advanced technologies that Silicon Valley is renowned for while maintaining a distinct respect for the environment through sustainable building materials.
