

THE BRAID

Silicon Valley is a cornucopia of diverse creative people. The Confluence park becomes The Valley of the Valley, connecting and interweaving.

The serpentine tubes clad with wood, THE BRAID, circles the site's existing monuments with people's movement. The landmark branches out and is visible afar with surfaces of led images.

THE BRAID touches only the competition plots, but stretches over the rivers. Visitors can walk through and look out.

This is a new interpretation of what a landmark should be – a fused ecological landscape and prominent spatial elements. Present activities in the park stay with new additions.