

Our proposal includes a simple, approachable building that will serve the whole Valley as a landmark, a gathering point, a view tower, and a spot of attraction for visitors all around the world.

The main idea of this design consists of two elements: a regular tall building shape and the old Light Tower silhouette. And as a result of combination, we received an unexpected proportioned building that contains history and novelty. The simple building with bold, a bit irrational cutout, represents Silicone Valley with all its upside-down thoughts and world turning innovations.
