Work-Relay: Business Operations In-a-Box

What if you:

- Could build a digital map of your business operations?
- Had complete visibility over end-to-end operations?
- Knew exactly who was doing what in real-time?
- Were able to quickly adapt operations to changing circumstances?
- Didn't have to worry about things falling through the cracks?
- Could manage processes, resources, and operational projects in one place?

AND:
You could get all this on Salesforce - without needing to know anything about Salesforce?

AND:
It would be a comprehensive, unified, out-the-box business operations management system that you could configure to your unique environment using drag-and-drop?

AND:
You could do all this without disruption or risk, and without forcing users to do use new tools to get their work done?

If you had all this - would it help you to run your business operations better?

What is Work-Relay?

Work-Relay is a proven, comprehensive, enterprise-grade, business operations management system and the only unified, out-the-box system on Salesforce to systemize work and dynamically manage and optimize complex business operations and process-driven operational projects.

What are the benefits of Work-Relay?

With Work-Relay, managers have complete real-time visibility that provides a thorough understanding of work progress, operational status, and who is doing what when.

Shielded from the underlying complexities of your operations environment, you can easily adapt processes to changing circumstances. And you can maximize user productivity by ensuring dependencies are managed and enforced, and process gaps that result in errors and rework are minimized.

Who uses Work-Relay?

Work-Relay clients include large enterprises like The Home Depot, Mars Corporation, and Procter & Gamble, as well as small and mid-size companies across 12 industries.

Typical use cases include installing fiber optics, managing clinical trials, coordinating custom manufacturing, and managing product design.

How do I implement Work-Relay?

Work-Relay is simply an application that is installed on Salesforce. Once installed, you are ready to go. You can have your first processes live in a couple of weeks.

Will I have help if I need it?

Work-Relay will help you get up and running and provides ongoing support as needed.

Get started today and start reaping the benefits of having your business operations under control!

Contact us for more info at info@work-relay.com