ROSE

Within the ROSE team, you are contributing to the establishment of a young project focused on the question of sustainability within investment decisions. We are working with investors and VCs, academic partners, startups as well as other strategic stakeholders.

The main tasks consist of developing and establishing a sustainability assessment tailored to startups, along with an impact valuation method, coaching and leading the companies throughout the whole framework. While the structure and processes are now well established, the team regularly challenges them to improve the experience and scale the final product. In addition, we focus on developing the project strategically, which involves typically the establishment of a knowledge base to share externally, establishing partnerships and fundraising or financing for the project.

Skills

- You inherit inner motivation to contribute to a more sustainable entrepreneurial scene
- You are curious and have the ability to quickly gain expertise in new topics (e.g. environmental impact of the mobility sector, startup business models in various industries, operational best practices, rating agencies for corporates, foundation application procedure, etc.)
- You have empathy and care for others
- You are proactiv, autonom and reliable
- You are resilient

Benefits

- Get first-hand insights into the start-up world and investing scene • Strengthen organizational, social and communication skills
- Learn to work under pressure
- Be part of a dynamic, super-motivated, driven START Global Team
