Miami's Coolest Neighborhoods

Cruising top down Ocean Drive for an up-close look at the art deco buildings, riding Citi Bikes on Collins Ave and working out at Lummus Park are all worth doing.

But there's a lot to the Magic City beyond the glitz and glamor of South Beach, from designer districts and gallery-filled neighborhoods. Miami is a beautiful city with lots of fascinating areas, here are Five cool neighborhoods in Miami to see.

LITTLE HAVANA

Little Havana is at the heart of the American experience. The neighborhood's riddled with Latin-inspired cafes, restaurants, venues and mom-and-pop stores.

Where to dine:

La Carreta, Wake and Bake, Azucar Ice Cream Company, Morro Castle, Versailles, Ball & Chain.

When to go:

On the last Friday of each month, Little Havana hosts Viernes Culturales, or Cultural Fridays

WYNWOOD

Wynwood is Miami's art district. With streets lined with eye-popping graffiti, over 100 art galleries, trendy cafes, and the astonishing Wynwood Walls.

Where to dine:

Wynwood Kitchen and bar, The Salty Donut, Panther Coffee, Coyo Taco, Zak the Baker, Alter, Beaker & Gray and Joey's.

When to go:

The second Saturday of any month for the monthly art walks.

COCONUT GROVE

Coconut Grove is a charming, bayside village within the urban dynamic of Miami. The Grove, as it's commonly called, is the oldest inhabited neighborhood of Miami, lined with sidewalk cafes, galleries, boutiques and many open-air bay front parks.

Where to dine:

Lokal, Lulu's, The Grove Spot, Bizcaya Restaurant, Le Bouchon, GreenStreet Cafe, Monty's and newcomers such as Glass & Vine, 33 Kitchen, and Harry's Pizzeria have propelled the Grove to the next level.

DOWNTOWN MIAMI

Downtown Miami is one of Miami's fastest growing areas for a reason – it's a mixture of cultural, commercial and leisure hot spots.

Where to dine:

Zuma, Seaspice, Garcia's, Komodo, PB Station, Area 31, Rooftop at Elleven
