The Clarilis team consists of programmers, automation specialists and document analysts who are all resources that our legal team use to deliver projects.

Reporting to the head of legal you will have strong drafting skills and exceptional attention to detail. Our legal team plays a critical role in the automation of our clients' documents alongside our document analysts and technology professionals. Having trained with a reputable firm you will have gained at least 3 years' experience in a fee earning role. The position would also suit candidates with substantially more experience. You will enjoy taking responsibility for running a variety of interesting projects, supervising more junior team members and taking the lead in client liaison. In addition to focusing on the technical drafting of our clients' documents, there is the opportunity to assist with client training and business development. Roles are tailored to suit skillset and our team members' interests. The opportunity would suit a lawyer who has a passion for legal technology who is seeking a new challenge where they can use their legal specialism in a new, exciting and innovative way. Other practice areas outside of those mentioned above will also be considered.

The ideal candidate will have the following skills and attributes:

- Excellent drafting skills and attention to detail
- A logical and methodical approach
- Good at problem-solving
- Able to understand and break-down complex issues
- A technical aptitude and interest in technology
- Willing to learn new approaches to working methods
- Able to communicate with a wide range of people at varying levels of seniority and experience
- Open to discussion and have a willingness to adapt approach according to a client's requirements
- Able to work to deadlines and manage own workload efficiently
- A good team player
- Good Word skills - an advanced knowledge is preferable

The role involves:

- Designing questionnaires for the automation of our clients' precedent documents
- Preparing the precedent documents for automation by applying logic and ensuring all relevant scenarios are catered for in the document
- Identifying questions to ask the client and discussing those questions with the client
- Liaising with the client throughout the process
- Liaising with the automation team
- Testing automated suites of legal documents
- Providing training to clients on the automated documents.

This role would suit a lawyer who is seeking something different and challenging for their next move. Clarilis provides a unique in-house opportunity to work at the heart of our business. You will be working within a supportive team of high calibre lawyers from magic circle and other leading firm backgrounds undertaking intellectually stimulating projects. What's more you will be working with a client base consisting of large global and top 100 UK firms at the cutting edge of a key technological development in the legal profession.

Flexible working arrangements are available.
