Don Koehler is not employed by nor a member of Rose Law Firm. Don practices law from a separate and independent law firm. However, Don regularly associates with Rose Law Firm to serve specific clients of Rose Law Firm on discrete matters.

Don Koehler is a highly knowledgeable attorney with twenty-five years of experience working on real estate, litigation, and business transactions for diverse law firms in Oregon, Missouri, Kansas, and a Fortune 500 company in Iowa.

He has been involved in numerous large commercial real estate transactions including negotiating the purchase and sale of properties, construction, leasing, lending, and insurance contracts.

As a corporate litigator, Don has handled matters relating to construction defects, real estate equity, real estate lending, personal injury, environmental, employee benefits, pension and ERISA, banking, class actions, and securities.

Don was previously Of Counsel at Portland, Oregon law firm, Cable Huston LLP for four years. At Cable Huston he drafted and negotiated documents and agreements for real estate and lending transactions in addition to assisting with litigation and trial work.
