“It was great to attend the SEED [Seeking Educational Equity & Diversity] facilitator training this past summer. I met people who changed my own perspective and it reminded me that each individual has their own story to share. Co-facilitating SEED meetings this year for colleagues at Hillbrook allows me to see and connect with my colleagues with a depth that is not often given time in a typical workplace.”

“Attending AWP [Association of Writers & Writing Programs] Annual Conference breathed life into my own reading and writing practice and gave me a contemporary selection of books that the students will love to read and learn from--in particular, books that build empathy. It was so refreshing to learn from writers and educators who are at the top of their crafts, share that experience with my colleagues, and to be able to take that enthusiasm and passion back to my students.”
