1. Using chalk lines and tape measure, mark out location of bases and homeplate as desired.

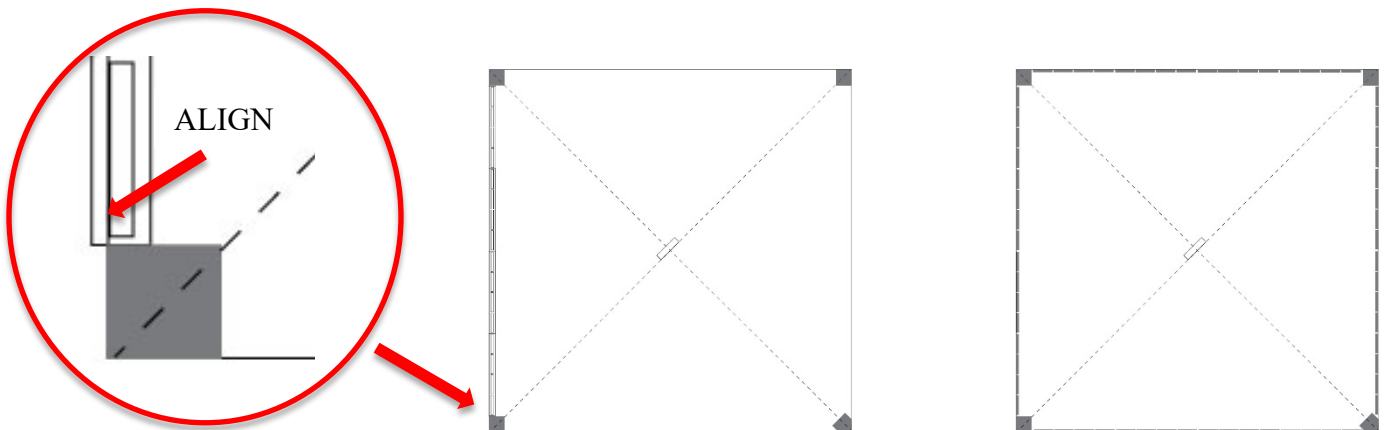

2. Take plate (square) and homeplate (pentagon) and place as shown below left, lining up outside edges to chalk lines (note homeplate is oriented with arrow pointing away from field). Using small sized brushes or rollers, paint the base and homeplate. Repeat 1-2 more times to achieve desired vividness, drying after each application, and remove stencil. Using square plate only, paint 1st and 2nd base as well. Pavement should like below right.

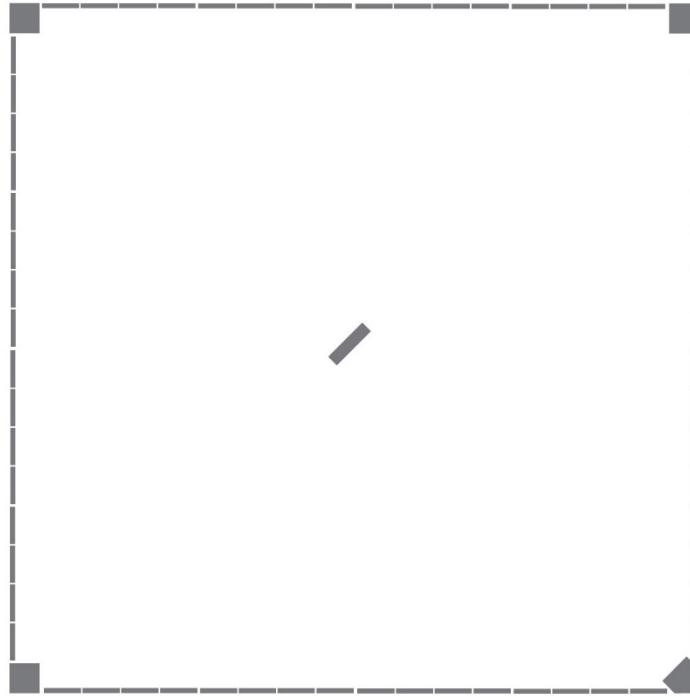

3. Take chalk line and going from homeplate to 2nd base, and then from 1st to 3rd base, find center of field as shown below left. Place pitcher's plate at intersection of chalk lines and align front of plate stencil to chalk line (that runs from 1st to 3rd) as shown below, middle. Using small sized brushes or rollers, paint the base and homeplate. Repeat 1-2 more times to achieve desired vividness, drying after each application, and remove stencil. Painted pavement should look like below right.

4. Take one strip of line stencils and align outer edge with chalk line so that it lines up with outer edge of base, as shown below left. Align other stencils to create straight line to other base. (Example is below middle, of running line stencils from 3rd to 2nd base). Using small sized brushes or rollers, paint the lines. Repeat painting 1-2 more times to achieve desired vividness, drying after each application, and remove stencils. Repeat this step for other base lines. Painted pavement should look like below right.
