

Introducing CURTIS CHANDA

International Director of Global Teams

We are excited to announce the appointment of Curtis Chanda as the new International Director of Global Teams. Curtis comes to us with more than two decades of field experience with Frontiers International, an organization which shares Global Teams' emphasis on reaching unreached people groups and equipping and sending believers from within new movements. Curtis and his wife Diana have spent the last twenty years living and working in a Muslim context in Central Asia. Through God's grace, they were able to plant the first churches in their area for Muslim background believers.

As a Field Director, Curtis oversaw all teams in Russia, Central Asia and China. His training and coaching of multi-cultural leaders around the globe will enable him to contribute to Global Teams' locally based, multi-cultural sending model. Curtis was also a leader in a multi-agency partnership dedicated to equipping Central Asian Muslim background believers for ministry. This experience will serve Curtis well in the partnerships Global Teams forms with others to train leadership within unreached people groups. For six years, Curtis served on Frontiers' Executive Council (Board of Directors). Additionally, he founded an NGO that received international recognition for its environmental work.

Diana Chanda's passion for finding appropriate cultural expressions of the Gospel, along with her education and field experience, will bring new insight to Global Teams' vision to see the heart of Christ in the skin of every culture. Curtis and Diana have three daughters, all of whom were born in Central Asia: Lauren (15), and twins - Victoria and Veronica (11). The family will reside in Florida, where Global Teams' North American office is located.

A gifted motivational speaker, Curtis is able to cast vision that draws others to participate in God's redemption story. All of us at Global Teams are delighted to welcome the Chandas into our community and Curtis into the role of International Director.
